Wine is a sensitive good and requires experience and competency in regards to transport & logistics.

We have been specialized for years in the transport and logistics of noble wines and spirits. Our international customers rely on our "know-how" and value our complete service.

What are the challenges of transporting wine and spirits?

Before a wine can be enjoyed, it often has at least one, often several, transports under its belt. There are many fears and legends in regards to this topic.

Wine can normally be transported without concern if it is not exposed to excessive temperatures. High temperatures are particularly critical if there are simultaneously temperature fluctuations. This often ruins wine.

Wine damaged by excessive temperatures can sometimes be recognized in that the cork has been somewhat pushed out and liquid is leaking.

How can we help you prevent this?

It is of the utmost importance to keep the temperature constant during the entire transport. For this reason, we offer consultation before every transport in order to make sure that your product is received securely and punctually at its final destination. Specifically for transportation from and to overseas countries, it is important that all required decisions are made punctually. Whether a standard or refrigerated container, general cargo or air freight, we will provide you with professional consulting and together we will come up with the optimal solution.

Can we do anything else for you?

Our services do not only include technical planning and organization of the transport process. We would also be happy to provide you information about possible packaging solutions. The right packaging is also important and depends on the selection of the transportation mode as well as the climatic conditions at the departure and arrival sites.

Do you have any questions about customs formalities in the country of origin and destination or you need more information about a possible financial protection for your customers and suppliers? We can also help you here and would be happy to support you in finding solutions customized to your needs.

How can you protect yourself against possible risks?

Careful and professional planning and execution are important elements for minimizing the risk of damage.

Unfortunately, despite the best preparation, there are always certain hazards that must be considered. This is why it is indispensable to deal with this topic before transport. We can offer you a hand in this area as well and would be happy to create a short risk analysis for you before transport. If desired, you can take out a fitting transport insurance from our renowned insurance partner.
